Healing in Justice: An Indigenous Social Worker's Perspective of the Queensland Prison System and its Impact on Incarcerated Indigenous Persons

I will be presenting on my current research in progress in Aotearoa and Queensland, investigating ways in which to bring Indigenous Healing methods/practices and culturally appropriate rehabilitation programs into the Queensland Prison system as an avenue in which to address the over-representation and gross recidivism of Indigenous people within the Queensland criminal justice and prison systems.

This presentation will also highlight Indigenous ways of knowing and Indigenous ways of doing from a grassroots Indigenous researcher's perspective.
